HIGHLIGHT – CHRISTMAS IN ALSACE

HOTELS WE RECOMMEND

MUST SEE

STRASBOURG

With its monumental cathedral featuring carvings as delicate as any piece of lacework, Strasbourg is one of Europe's most attractive cities. Thanks to the richness and sheer density of its heritage sites, the entire town centre has been listed as UNESCO World Heritage. Strasbourg is definitely well worth a visit, to discover its history, its cuisine and its unique atmosphere

MUST SEE

La Petite France

"This is the most picturesque district of old Strasbourg. Fishermen, millers and tanners once lived and worked in this part of town where the streets have been built level with the waterways. The magnificent half-timbered houses date from the 16th and 17th centuries. Their sloping roofs open out onto lofts where hides were once dried."

The cathedral of Notre-Dame

"A prodigy of the gigantesque and the delicate," as Victor Hugo claimed. Strasbourg Cathedral (1015-1439) is an absolute masterpiece of Gothic art. The 142 m high spire looks incredibly lightweight and made the Cathedral the highest edifice in all Christianity until the 19th century. Three high-spots make the visit unforgettable. Outside, the facade is the greatest "book" of images the Middle Ages has to offer. Hundreds of sculptures stand out from the wall accentuating the effects of shadow and light. The colour of the red sandstone changes throughout the day depending on the colour of the sky. In the summer evenings, the illuminated scenography is an enchantment. Inside, the long aisle inspires peace and reflection. The 12th- to 14th-century stained-glass windows and the rose window are not to be missed. The monumental organ has a remarkable cabinet decorated with automated figures. The astronomical clock built in the Renaissance period and mechanism dating back to 1842 is a masterpiece in itself, where the procession of apostles can be admired every day at 12:30 p.m.

The Oeuvre Notre-Dame Museum

"One of the finest collection of medieval works in France. Located at the foot of the Cathedral, this charming Museum owns one of the finest collections of medieval art in France, and even in Europe. The collections span seven centuries of art in Strasbourg and in the Upper Rhine River basin. From the renowned Christ's Head, known as the Wissembourg Christ's Head, one of the oldest stained-glass windows on record, to the crystal baskets painted in the mid-17th century by Sébastien Stosskopf, the master of still-life, the remarkable collections testify to the vitality of art in Strasbourg during the Middle Ages and Renaissance. The masterpieces of medieval sculptures from the Cathedral, among which the Church, the Synagogue ou the famous Tempter, are displayed side by side with the best witnesses of Upper Rhine art in the 15th and 16th centuries. The place granted great artists such as sculptor Nicolas de Leyde or painters Conrad Witz and Hans Baldung Grien match their talents. The tour of the Museum, the synthesis of all arts, is made in complete harmony with the architecture of the site: behind the ancient gables of the building housing Oeuvre Notre-Dame, an organism responsible for the construction and restoration of the cathedral since the 13th century, the interior decors, together with the cool courtyards and the charming Gothic herb garden, contribute to the feeling of intimacy with the rich past of Strasbourg."

THE ALSACE WINE ROUTE

The Wine Route is the capricious ribbon that runs along the eastern slopes of the Vosges, quietly rolling down the mountainsides and taking in fifty-one local wines that boast the registered designation of origin 'Alsace Grand Cru'. Take your time discovering the very soul of the Wine Route, starting out from Marlenheim, passing through the Cleebourg vineyards and ending your journey in Thann. Admire the ruins of castles, lose yourself in the streets of medieval towns, follow the wine trails and enjoy the panoramas...

Short history

Launched in 1953, the Alsace Wine Route is one of the oldest wine routes in France. It offers visitors - both neophytes and connoisseurs – a wide range of activities related to wine and the vineyard all year round.

Originally a popular touring rally, it has become one of the jewels of the Alsace! It winds 170km from the north to the south of the region, passing through 70 wine-growing villages, renowned for being some of the most beautiful villages in the Alsace. Many visitors marvel at the fortified towns and villages of Eguisheim, Kaysersberg, Ribeauvillé, Riquewihr, Andlau, Obernai...

The Alsace Wine Route is also a popular gathering place. From April to October, villages organise wine and harvest festivals in turn. Folklore entertainment, processions and wine-tastings take place all day long, and even at night, in a lively and friendly atmosphere !

The Alsace Wine Route has contributed to the fame of Alsace Wines for the past 60 years.

The most famous Wine Route in France proudly reveals its medieval châteaux and Renaissance houses and the flowery lanes of its charming villages. A land of tradition and wine, offering a unique experience for the visitor. Officially established as a tourist route in 1953, it celebrates its 60th anniversary in 2013.

Renowned for its remarkable and simple itinerary, the Wine Route invites you to discover the region and its wine producers. It winds through sloping valleys along the foothills of the Vosges for more than 170km, crossing the entire wine region from Marlenheim to Thann and meeting some 1000 producers. It also includes an isolated section around Wissembourg, in the far north of the Alsace.

Five regions carry (or are in the process of gaining) the “Vignobles et Découvertes” label:

The “Pays de Wissembourg” wine region

The “Vignoble de Strasbourg”, from Marlenheim to Molsheim

The “Cœur d'Alsace” wine region, between Mont Sainte-Odile and the Château du Haut-Kœnigsbourg

The “Terre et Vins au Pays de Colmar” wine region, around Colmar

The “La Route des Vins Sud-Alsace” wine region, around Thann and Guebville

HAUT KOENIGSBOURG CASTLE

The moment you step over the threshold of the great door at Haut-Koenigsbourg Castle, you find yourself in a whole new world: the Middle Ages. Cross the lower Courtyard with its inn, forge and mill then climb the spiral stairways leading to the Lord's furnished apartments. Plunge into an environment of architecture and furnishings steeped in history. The omni-present drawbridges, armoury, keep and cannons are a constant reminder of the purpose of this mountain fortress, which has been besieged, destroyed and pillaged numerous times since its construction.

This prestigious fortress was abandoned after 1633, and then given to Kaiser Wilhelm II von Hohenzollern in 1899 by the town of Sélestat. He commissioned the architect Bodo Ebhardt, a specialist in medieval fortifications, to restore the castle. Its renovation satisfied his passion for the Middle Ages, whilst he dreamed of a return to the old German Empire.

The political ambition of this huge renovation project, undertaken at the beginning of the 20th century, was to legitimize the newly forged Hohenzollern imperial dynasty, and create a symbol for the world of the power held by this new empire. Today, the restoration is admired more for its educational potential: although it is not altogether perfect, the result is undeniably authentic. Much to the delight of fortress enthusiasts, this restoration of the Haut-Koenigsbourg offers a remarkable insight into 15th century mountain fortresses in the Alsace region.

Visit the artillery platform, also referred to as the Grand Bastion: an exceptional monument with a characteristic structure. Take the time to enjoy the breathtaking panoramic view over the Alsace plain, the Vosges Mountains, the Black Forest and even, on a clear day, the Alps...

The Haut-Koenigsbourg castle is one of the symbols of Alsatian heritage and a witness to the course of European history. Visitors from all horizons have the ideal environment to become more familiar with castle architecture, the Middle Ages and the early 20th century restoration through a wide choice of tours, activities and events.

When you visit the Haut-Koenigsbourg you visit so much more than just a monument...

History, figures, heritage

For Georges Duhamel (as he wrote in 1931), Colmar was the "most beautiful town in the world". It has also often been said that it is the most Alsatian town in Alsace! Without going over the top with superlatives, Colmar undoubtedly remains an exceptional town due to the wealth and variety of its historical and architectural heritage.

The capital of central Alsace, situated near Germany and Switzerland between the Vosges and the Rhine, Strasbourg and Mulhouse, the town offers visitors an exciting glimpse of 1000 years of European history.

Besides, with its 67,000 inhabitants, Colmar retains a 'country town' atmosphere which contributes so much to its charm. Wonderfully preserved from the ravages of time, its homogenous historical centre is classed as a 'protected area' and has benefited from careful restoration and ongoing improvements for more than 20 years.

MUST SEE

The Dominican Church

Started in 1283, the construction of the Dominican church mainly dates back to the first half of the 14th century. It is an important example of the mendicant orders architecture, even if the Dominicans arrived in 1278 were temporarily driven out of the city in 1330. In 1458, the roof and the cloister were damaged by a fire. After that, reconstruction works have been necessary. In 1720, thanks to the installation of a baroque decorating, the church was less austere than before. The Dominican church was during the most part of the 19th century used to non-religious ends, before becoming again a place of worship in 1898. The church has been restored in the early 80's and 90's.

Around 1475, Martin Schongauer's studio created the Altarpiece of the Dominicans which is today exposed in the Unterlinden museum. Since 1973 the Dominican Church owns the masterpiece of Martin Schongauer, Madonna of the Rose Bush, which was exposed in the Saint Martin collegiate church.

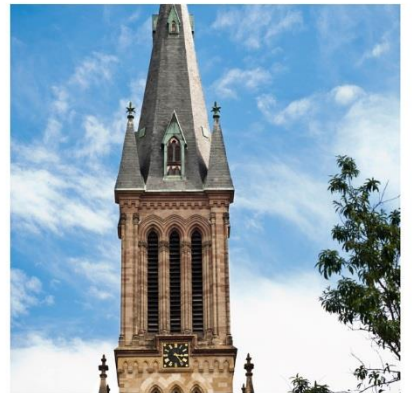

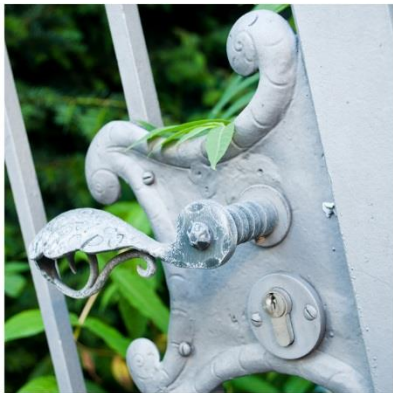

The fishmonger's district

The fishmonger's district is the place where most of the professional fishermen and boatmen of Colmar lived. They were in a powerful corporation. The caught fishes were stored in fish ponds or sold in the fishmonger's district. In 1706 a huge fire destroyed more than forty houses in the district. From 1978 to 1981, important renovation works made it possible to restore many half-timbered houses in this district which is between the Tanneurs district and the picturesque little Venice.

The Pfister House

The Pfister house was built in 1537 for the hatter Ludwig Scherer, who made his fortune with money trading in the Val de Liepvre. Despite its medieval features, the house is the first example of architectural renaissance in Colmar. With its two-storey corner oriel, its wood gallery, its octagonal turret and its mural paintings which represent biblical and secular scenes, the Pfister house became one of the symbols of the old Colmar. It owns its name to the family
